A witness who entered the Nariman House on 26/11 after hearing explosions from the building and came face to face with terrorists narrated his experience in the special court on Wednesday.

The witness, Kamal Singh, a local businessman who resides in the locality had gone for a walk after his dinner around 9.25 pm on 26/11. "I saw a huge crowd outside the Nariman House and heard cracker type sounds from the building," he told the court.

Singh took a bamboo pole from a nearby under-construction building and entered Nariman House. On the first floor, he saw two men standing on the landing of the stairs. One of them turned towards him and shouted 'Kafir' while the other opened fire. Singh ducked and escaped uninjured. "After sitting there for a few moments, I rushed out of the building and went to my house," he said.

Singh later identified the terrorists' bodies in the hospital.

The prosecution also examined Ramval Yadav, a petrol pump attendant who described how bullets were fired and hand grenades lobbed at the petrol pump from Nariman House. Police sub inspector Hanumant Bhandarkar who recorded the complaint at Colaba police station also deposed in the court.
