MUMBAI: A police inspector who had kept articles-including arms and ammunition, GPS devices etc-seized from Nariman House during the 26/11 terror attack in wrappers meant for articles seized from Taj Hotel, told the court on Monday that he was under "tremendous pressure" on the day of the attack and hence the mistake may have occurred.

Inspector Manikrao Patil had been summoned to give a clarification on the goof-up which had come to light in court on September 17. "I was the only person handling the panchnamas of three cases in the police station. I was under tremendous work pressure, so the mistake occurred," Patil told judge M L Tahaliyani.

Patil had conducted six spot panchnamas of articles handed over to him by the National Security Guard (NSG) after the counter-terror operations at Nariman House, Taj Hotel and Hotel Oberoi got over.

Judge Tahaliyani said he will consider Patil's value as a witness at a later stage. On Monday, Patil could not remember the number of articles seized by him. When the court asked him how many magazines were seized in one particular panchnama, he answered there were nine while the records showed that there were actually 16 magazines.
