

Becker Professional 50 LMU Navigationsgerät (12,7 cm (5") ...
EUR 198,90

Datenschutz

India

3 dozen bullets were fired, but not a single one hit terrorists

Friday, June 19, 2009 - 11:15

<<previous

next>>

Recommend

Twitter

Comments(0)

Becker Professional 50 LMU ...
EUR 198,90

Datenschutz

June 19:Mumbai, June 19: With the prosecution reaching the last leg of the CST attacks case on Thursday, the depositions of the RPF and GRP personnel who tried battling the two terrorists on 26/11, serves as a much-needed introspection for the concerned forces.

Over three dozen bullets were claimed to have been fired by the policemen while wrestling with their jammed rifles yet none managed to touch the gunmen who with their AK-47s, killed 57 and injured 109 at CST that night.

On June 12, RPF constable Manmath Nardele deposed that he had fired eight rounds from his .303 rifle before it got jammed, but not a single one touched the gunmen. Nardele even said that he had gone to the armoury and got 20 more rounds, but it was too late as the duo

TomTom Via 135 M Europe Traffic ...
EUR 181,59

Datenschutz

had left by then.

On June 15, GRP constable Harshad Patil deposed that even his gun jammed after the first round, and GRP's assistant sub-inspector Sudam Pandarkar deposed that he fired two rounds that missed the target. The next day, RPF inspector Sandeep Kheratkar told the court that he too had fired 20 rounds, again none on target.

Some depositions were even more arresting. The complainant in the CST attacks, GRP officer Bharat Bhosale who was injured, told the court that he didn't fire with his service revolver as 'people were running helter-skelter the bullet could have hit a civilian too'.

Also, GRP commando Geetanjali Gurav, who received three months combat training with sophisticated weapons, didn't have weapons on her that night.

Special Judge M L Tahaliyani was so angry with the policemen saying how they fired at and missed the gunmen, how their rifles malfunctioned, that he remarked, "If there had been four policemen, then I'm sure all their guns would have been locked."

Interestingly, Kheratkar told the court on Thursday, that he and his colleague had fired 40 rounds from their .303 rifles at the two terrorists, but none hit them. However, RPF head constable Jullu Yadav testified that there was nobody left at CST to fight the gunmen, except him and another GRP constable, as dozens of policemen had run to safety.

--Agencies

Becker Professional 50 LMU ...
EUR 198,90

Datenschut:

Mamata Kulkarni - From Bollywood bombshell to spiritual guru

Leaked - Secret behind Sushmita Sen's new body

Taliban chief - This is why we shot Malala

Sanjay Dutt's big surprise for wife on birthday

Recommend Twitter Comments(0)

<<previous

next>>

Latest News

- 8 Reddy Mlas quit over Telangana
- Cylinders used in Bodh Gaya blasts made in Meerut: Probe
- Delhi gang-rape: Verdict on juvenile accused deferred till Aug 5

Related News

- Unfazed Sen says he won't budge on Modi, parties attack BJP
- War of words between Cong and BJP over Batla House encounter
- Telangana issue likely to figure at Cong meet tomorrow