HYPER - REALISTIC™ TACTICAL TRAINING THE NEXT GENERATION

Hyper-Realistic™ Training Envir

Foreign military forces conduct medical training at Strategic Operations in San Diego, California.

Looking to the future... and building on training support experience from OEF, OIF, and Overseas Contingency Operations... Strategic Operations, Inc. (STOPS) offers innovative solutions for the challenges our warfighters face in this increasingly unstable world.

Future threats to our nation's security more and more will come from failed states and under-governed areas where instability, chaos, and human misery foster breeding grounds for terrorism and insurgencies. Terrorism will not be so much the cause of our future problems as it will be the result of our failures to understand the human domain. As our military must become more agile, flexible, and ready for the challenges ahead, so must our understanding of the physical, cultural, and social environments in strategic parts of the globe. Our training must be based on these understandings. STOPS creates Hyper-Realistic™ training environments and simulations based on human terrain analytics, an understanding of human geography, and the social and cultural awareness that can help our military and civilian counterparts shape the human terrain before instability morphs into threats.
