Three shop-owners from the bylane behind Taj Hotel were detained on Sunday on suspicion that they provided logistical support to the militants.

The trio, said police, rented out their premises to store the arms and ammunition that were used by the militants for the three-day long massacre, senior police officials from the investigation team said.

A carpet shop and two small eateries near the Bade Miyan restaurant were used by the militants to store AK-47s and hand grenades, they said.

At least three people from that area were detained by the police on suspicion.

However, police officials were unwilling to divulge further details fearing it would hamper their investigations.

“The three shops, where we suspect the arms were already stored, have easy accessibility to Taj,” said a senior police official, on condition of anonymity. Acting on information that the militants camouflaged the arms with clothes, plastic bags and carpets, a police team detained the men.
